Greetings!

In the first five months of the year we have heard encouraging news from contractors suggesting construction activity is picking up in many areas. Attendees in Dallas, Houston, Phoenix, Denver and Livermore ranged in experience from "new to tile" to regional and national experts in the field. Roof consultants and home inspectors in every class make for good discussions.

For those of you who have asked and suggested a "hands on" training, we hear you. While there are financial and logistical challenges, that does not stop us from dreaming. Our Livermore training hosts at the Bay Area Roofing Contractors Association Roofing and Waterproofing Training Center (located on Leisure St), demonstrated that dream in action. See more photos from this training and their great facility on the TRI Training Facebook page.

It's roofing season so best wishes for a strong and safe year. Here's an inspirational excerpt from Chris Cain's book "A day in the Life of a Roofer":

"Maybe we're only on the roof for a day, three days, or a week before we move on to the next one, but we pride ourselves in our ability to confront problems along with new and different challenges. At the end of the day, our work isn't buried underground, hidden in stacks of paper or stored on a computer in a dark office. Our work is prominent and in plain sight for the world to see and often a substantial architectural feature. We install roofs. Maybe we don't need to be thanked for that. But all in all its springtime boys, keep up the good work. Be proud you are a ROOFER!" ~ Chris Cain, President Roof Check Inc.
